DocuTrac, Inc gets a Break Room and a New Look

Most of the time people working for DocuTrac, Inc. (DTI), a software company located in the Technical Innovation Center, HCC in Hagerstown, Maryland, would sit at their desks during lunch eating and working. Arnie Schuster, PhD President and Sandra Schuster Vice President of DTI decided they wanted to provide a break room where employees could ‘leave’ work and really take a break. They also felt that an updated and contemporary look to their offices would help reflect the company’s image as a software business.

With these thoughts in mind, they contacted Collien Driscoll of Driscoll Interior Design, a full service interior design studio, to help create the new break room and work spaces. Giving the designer free reign they described what they wanted. For the break room they asked for a fun space with color, and one that could double for both an eatery and a place for staff meetings. In the work spaces, they wanted a contemporary and sophisticated, yet warm, feel.

Driscoll enlisted the help of sign designer Wayne Driscoll of Custom Sign Studio to provide unique, eye-catching effects with custom dry erase boards and custom graphics. The rooms were painted, and then furnished with contemporary functional furniture. Art work and lots of color resulted in bright, energizing rooms for eating, meeting, and working. The results of the project exceeded expectations, and provided a moral booster for everyone at DTI.
